Saginaw County Community Mental Health Authority Announces Newly Renovated Website

SAGINAW, MI – Saginaw County Community Mental Health Authority (SCCMHA) is pleased to announce to the public their completely renovated website that went live this month. The website address – www.sccmha.org – remains the same, but users will find vast improvements in the look, use and availability of information on the refreshed site.

“We have been looking forward to making this upgrade for some time,” states Sandra Lindsey, SCCMHA CEO. “Our new look and content is in keeping with where we are now as an organization, with enhanced detail on who we are and the services we provide accessible for all of our stakeholders, including consumers, families, partners and other Saginaw citizens.”

“I am pleased that we are now able to offer SCCMHA stakeholders and other interested persons this improved website with richer content and easier navigation,” adds Lindsey. “I would encourage any previous users as well as those who have not sought information about SCCMHA to visit the enhanced site to learn more about our organization and what we are doing in the Saginaw community.”

The public may also contact the SCCMHA Customer Service Office for more information about services and related information at (989) 797-3400, as well as provide feedback on the new website.
